THAULOW, FRITZ—Chevalier of the Legion of Honor; of the Order of Leopold of Belgium; of St. Olaf of Norway. Gold Medals at Berlin, Munich and Vienna. Diploma of Honor at Dresden. Member of Academy of Fine Arts, Munich, Champs de Mars, Paris.

FRITZ THAULOW was born in Christiania in 1847. His father was a distinguished chemist, and his grandfather a painter. Immediately after leaving school he entered the Academy at Copenhagen, where he showed some promise as a colorist, though defective in drawing. At twenty-seven years of age he left Copenhagen and took up his abode at Carlsruhe, where for two years he worked under the well-known painter, Gude, but the result being a failure and his parents greatly grieving at his lack of success, he returned to Norway to console them. Just about this time a revolt was in progress against the pretty, conventional art of the day, in which Thaulow joined. Speaking of the movement, Thaulow says: "There was something at once comical and grand about the matter. We were looked upon as madmen and every sort of insult was heaped
